PROJECTS

Human Resource Management System

Developed on Java (GUI)

Our project is an upgrade of the traditional manual HR management system to an internet-operated application to let the employees know about details of their accounts, salary details, attendance and feedback report.

Employee Management System

Developed on C++

A menu-driven program that allows you to add, update, delete and search records of an employee working in an organization.

Medical Laboratory Database

Developed on SQL Server

The database is used to manage the medical records and health files of the patients. It also stores the details of the doctors and technicians working for the organization along with the tests provided.
